KNOW THE FACTS

Cervical cancer is almost always preventable.

Here's what you can do

Get checked with a simple test to prevent cervical cancer.

Cervical cancer can affect anyone with a cervix who has ever been sexually active. A cervical screening test looks for the signs of cancer before it starts.

Talk to your family doctor or nurse practitioner about your personal risk and regular screening.

Stay informed about HPV and cervical cancer.

HPV is the cause of cervical cancer. Regular screening and follow-up of abnormal results up to at least age 70 is important for preventing cervical cancer.

Most cervical cancers are found in women who are not screened regularly.
